On The Intransitive Or Neuter Verbs. (Page 146-153.; How did you sleep last night? I slept pretty well; for I was tired when I went to bed; I had worked very hard. The apostle Paul says: I have fought a good fight. Why do you stand the whole day idle? We sat round (um, acc.) the table. We lay those things which lie; but we place those things which stand. We seat ourselves when we wish to sit. The book lies on (auf, dat.) the table; for I put it on it. The boy sits on the chair; his mother put him on it. The candlestick stands on the table; the servant put it on it. We were playing chess the whole evening, and when we left off, we found that we had become quite stiff by sitting. I am quite sure that this man will become ill by drinking too much. I wanted some exercise; I have, therefore, taken a ride. His manners have degenerated since he has become rich. Nothing of importance has happened. Many a family has grown poor, because the father would not work. My son has almost recovered from his illness; and all unfavorable symptoms have disappeared. The...
