The proofs and process are complete; the time And crime require a quick procedure: shall He now be calld in to receive the award The Giunta. Ay, ay. Ben. Avogadori, order that the Doge Be brought before the council. One of the Giunta. And the rest, When shall they be brought up (1) I know what Foscolo means, about Calendaros spitting at Ber. tram; that s national-the objection, I mean. The Italians and French, with those flags of abomination their pocket handkerchiefs, spit there, and here, and every where else-in your face almost, and therefore object to it on the stage as too familiar. But we who spit nowhere-but in a mans face when we grow savage-are not likely to feel this. Remember Massinger, and Keans Sir Giles Overreach Besides, Calendaro does not spit in Bertrams face; he spits at him, as I have seen the Mussulmans do upon the ground when they are in a rage. Again, he does not in fact despise Bertram, though he affects it, -as we all do, when angry with one we think our inferior. He is angry at not being allowed to die in his own way (although not afraid of death); and recollect that he suspected and hated Bertram from the first. Israel Bertuccio, on the other hand, is a cooler and more concentrated fellow: he acts upon principle and impulse; Calendaro upon impulse and example. So there s argument for you. -...
